If you look back in step 3, you will see that we created the output bitmap with `config.argb_8888`. We thought it would be a great idea for a hallucinogen simulation application, but it would not fit in our music reader. It's just a really shocking experience when all your screen blinks from one bottom (and even worse on some devices that sometimes show a black background solid by some pictures). Step 3: Download this Bitmap! If you look at the writeups and gists I've linked at The Beginning Then You'll See I'm Not a Programmer (See the link in the comments) : 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 @Override Public Bitmap Transform (Bitmap Bitmap) { Bitmap blurredbitmap = bitmap.createBitmap (bitmap.getWidth (), bitmap.getHeight (), Bitmap.Config.ARGB_8888); // Initialize RenderScript and The Script to Be Used RenderScript renderScript = RenderScript.Create (Mcontext); ScriptIntrinsicBlur script = scriptIntrinsicBlur.create (renderScript, element.U8_4 (renderScript)); // Allocate Memory for RenderScript to Work with Allocation Input = Allocation.CreateFromBitmap (RenderScript, Bitmap); Allocation Output = Allocation.CreateFromBitmap (RenderScript, BlurredBitmap); script.setInput (input); script.setRadius (MrADIUS); script.forEach (output); output.copyTo (blurredbitmap); renderScript.destroy (); bitmap.recycle (); Return BlurredBitmap; } That Looks Quite Complete. In the mother () you should take into account all variables that influence the aspect of the resulting bitmap. If there are probably many great features on how to do this (Code AOSP for the Gallery application can be a place to start). The solution is obvious, we must cheer up gently from one fund to the other. So we started with something in this regard: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 Class Public Instruments BlurTransformation { private final int radius; private final float radiusF; public BlurTransformation (int radius) { this (radius, (float) radius); } public BlurTransformation (int radius, float radiusF) { this.radius = radius; this.radiusF = radiusF; } public Bitmap transform (Bitmap bitmap) { Allocation input = Allocation.CreateFromBitmap (RenderScript, bitmap); Allocation output = Allocation.CreateFromBitmap (RenderScript, bitmap); ScriptIntrinsicBlur script = scriptIntrinsicBlur.create (renderScript, element.U8_4 (renderScript)); script.setInput (input); script.setRadius (radiusF); script.forEach (output); output.copyTo (blurredbitmap); renderScript.destroy (); bitmap.recycle (); Return blurredbitmap; } }
